

5 Tips For Preparing Your NDIS Plan Review

Unsure of how to prepare for your National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS) plan review? We've got you covered, with our top five tips to help you get plan ready.

1. What to expect

Your review can be completed over the phone or face-to-face, depending on your preference. If you choose face-to-face, you don't have to tackle the meeting alone. You can bring a family member, friend, advocate or another person with you to the plan review.

Be sure to have all your service provider assessments and reports for the year and any recommended future supports.

2. What worked & what didn't

Before your plan review, it can be a good idea to consider what worked and what didn't work in your plan over the past 12 months.

Questions to consider:

- What did your funding help you to achieve?
- Were you well-supported in your goals, living arrangements, and job?
- Was there an area where your funding fell short of the mark?
- Was there funding that you didn't end up using?

Each year's funding is based on the reasonable and necessary needs of each participant.

3. Your life now

The First2Care software platform can be a great tool for guiding you through questions you'll be asked by your Planner.

The 'My Life Now' section covers all the aspects that will come up for discussion, including:

- Activities
- Living arrangements
- Relationships
- Support available
- Aids and equipment

4. Future goals

After reviewing the past year, you might discover you've already achieved previous goals or your goals have changed. That's completely normal.

You might want to:

- Pursue a new hobby?
- Enter employment or change jobs?
- Change your living arrangements?
- Increase your independence?
- Improve your health and wellbeing?
- Widen your social circle?

5. Making life easier

Your planning meeting is an excellent opportunity to consider whether to change from being managed with the NDIA to appointing a Plan Manager. Your plan will need funding to make this change. A good Plan Managers (like First2Care) can give the peace of mind, flexibility and assurance that you receive the best Plan and support for your needs.

You have an NDIS plan, now what?
